

The Authors

Ernest L. Boyer is a former U.S. Commissioner of Education and the current President of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Richard H. Brodhead is an Associate Professor of English at Yale.

Michael G. Cooke is a Professor of English at Yale and former Chairman of the University Advisory Council on the Teachers Institute.

Robert Kellogg is the Dean of the College of the University of Virginia.

Howard R. Lamar is the Dean of Yale College, William Robertson Coe Professor of American History and Chairman of the University Advisory Council on the Teachers Institute.

Maurice J. Mahoney, M.D., is a Professor of Human Genetics, Pediatrics, Obstetrics and Gynecology at Yale.

Jane K. Marshall is an English teacher at Richard C. Lee High School.

Robert Johnson Moore is an English teacher on special assignment in the New Haven Public Schools.

Elisabet O. Orville is a science teacher at Polly T. McCabe School.

Pamela M. Price-Anisman is an English teacher on leave from James Hillhouse High School.

James R. Vivian has been Director of the Yale-New Haven Teachers Institute since its inception in 1977.

Thomas R. Whitaker is a Professor of English and the Chairman of the Yale English Department.

Robin W. Winks is a Professor of History and Master of Yale's Berkeley College.